

SEX DISCRIMINATION AND HARASSMENT

Help maintain a campus that is a welcoming, safe place for all.

In accordance with Title IX of the Education Amendments, Texas A&M University rules prohibit discrimination in employment, educational programs, and activities offered by the university based upon sex. Sexual harassment, including sexual violence, is a form of discrimination based on sex. Title IX also prohibits sexual discrimination with regards to parental and marital status, and pregnancy.

Reporting violations or making inquiries regarding sex discrimination and harassment can help maintain a campus that is a welcoming, safe place for all.

Where to Report Any person (student, faculty, staff, or visitor) who has experienced or witnessed discriminatory practices based upon sex should notify the appropriate designated official below who handles alleged violations perpetrated by students, faculty, staff, and visitors. Employees may also notify their supervisor (if that person is not the alleged offender).
